Blytheco Welcomes Al Saadia as Accpac Practice Leader

Laguna Hills, California – January 8, 2011 – Blytheco, LLC is pleased to announce that Al Saadia has joined the company as Sage ERP Accpac Practice Leader in the Laguna Hills, California office. The addition of Mr. Saadia to the Blytheco team marks the launch of Blytheco's Accpac practice; the company has been a leading provider of Sage solutions for thirty years and has been named Sage's Partner of the Year multiple times.

Mr. Saadia has over twenty years of experience as a Controller and Business Systems Analyst and almost thirty years of experience implementing and providing consulting for Sage Accpac. He will be responsible for the development and success of the Accpac practice, including sales and consulting. Al will report to Ruth Menter, President and COO of Blytheco.

"We are pleased to have an industry veteran like Al join our team," said Stephen Blythe, CEO of Blytheco. "Accpac is a natural addition to our product offerings, and we are confident that with his guidance we will be able to exceed our clients' expectations consistently."

"I am extremely excited about joining the Blytheco team and integrating my experiences and skill sets with those of such a seasoned and professional staff," said Saadia. "Ultimately it will be the customer that will benefit from this relationship – the launch of the Accpac practice only enhances the breadth and quality of solutions available to organizations that choose to work with Blytheco."

Sage Accpac ERP is an advanced application built on a multi-tiered, object-oriented architecture. Designed for the small- to mid-sized enterprise market, Sage Accpac can be deployed either as a Web-based application or as a desktop application. It is deployed in more than 150 countries worldwide and supports multiple languages, so it can satisfy even the most demanding international requirements. A truly global application, Sage Accpac handles transactions using multiple currencies, calculates currency-revaluation, and complies with local accounting.
